

Born on the Southside of Chicago I have lived in Chicago for over 30 years. Growing up I attended Tilden Technical High School where I excelled in both math and science so much so that I received a 4-year mathematic scholarship to attend the University of Iowa. At the University I would go on to study Criminal Psychology before having to return to Chicago to care for an ailing parent. Upon my arrival back to Chicago I double majored in Photography (Print) and Marketing at Chicago State University and would finally receive my bachelor's from Robert Morris College with a double major in Business Management and Marketing.

Throughout the years I have worked in a number of industries (Hospitality, Retail, Entertainment, Manufacturing) Real Estate has always been at the forefront of my career path I've worked in the industry for over 10 years. I have seen both the ups and downs of the industry and have learned unique ways of marketing properties in both digital and print form.

In my spare time I work as a bartender at both Soldier Field and Private events. I volunteer with the Cystic Fibroses Foundation and Colorectal Cancer Foundation. During the summer I lend a hand at various Street and Beer Festivals throughout the city. I am also an avid gamer and can be found at various arcades in the city. I also volunteer on the Comic Con and Horror scene. You might see me at Wizard World, C2E2 and Days of the Dead to name a few. Lastly, I am a huge fan of Professional Wrestling both WWE and Independent. I have been to the past 4 WrestleMania's and attend various Independent promotions in the city as well as I am a personal driver for talent in Fort Wayne, IN.

Ask me about the newest pop up shop, the best summer street fest, best beer fest and latest arcades to hit the city.
